Marketers and retailers have to understand how to manage different consumer perception levels of retail brands, which have a major determining role on store loyalty across different complex contexts. Addressing these issues, Bettina Berg analyzes first whether corporate reputation and retail store equity have a reciprocal relationship in determining store loyalty. Second, she evaluates whether retail brand equity or store accessibility provides a greater contribution to store loyalty across different local competitive situations. Third, she investigates whether perceptions of format specific core attributes differ in their impact on the brand building process in saturated and emerging markets.?

The third edition of Moving and Learning continues to provide a comprehensive approach to activities and sports for elementary-aged children by introducing basic principles of movement education. The material reflects today's interest in cooperative educational methods and multi-ethnic concerns. Designed for both elementary education and physical education majors, this text provides timely information concerning movement education.

This text brings together selected essays of Edwin Mansfield, who has been engaged for almost 40 years in the economics of technical change, a field of importance for analysts and decision-makers. This text presents a quantitative analysis based largely on data collection from firms and other economic units.
